My team and I came together to create an app design project that we named EcoCycle. the main point or purpose of this app is to help the community in managing waste effectively and provide services to dispose of waste as well.

Here my responsibility is to create an interface design that is richer in more attractive UX components ranging from splash screens, monitoring vibrant graphics, button convenience, connecting scenarios between prototype page pages, and also designing additional components for several other static UI pages to have a more attractive UX experience for users. The rest of the design was done by the other four team members according to the division of tasks.
